

David S. Baime

David Baime serves as Senior Vice President, Public Purpose & National Advocacy for the American Association of Community Colleges (AACC). In this role, he directs the national advocacy efforts for the nation's more than 1,000 community colleges and their students. Prior to that time, he served as Director of Education Funding for the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities. Mr. Baime has also worked as Assistant Director of Government Relations for the Association of American Medical Colleges. Mr. Baime holds a bachelor's degree from Haverford College and a master's degree in Economics from the London School of Economics.

Mr. Baime has made a number of radio, television, and Web appearances, including on CNN, Fox News, MSNBC, C-SPAN's "Washington Journal," and National Public Radio, and is frequently quoted in The Chronicle of Higher Education, Inside Higher Education, Politico, and other education publications. He is the author of several published articles and essays and has co-written a book on community college finance. He is also a Trustee of Excelsior University. In his spare time he swims, plays Beatles covers, and tries to see as many Old Master paintings as possible.